ANNOTATION

09.01.2015

The legal security as a kind of national security is analyzed in this article from the perspective of international law. It is noted that a legally incorrect behavior of an official representative concluded an investment, a concession or other agreement on behalf of the state can cause irreparable damage to the national security of the state. In this context, the article provides specific examples of international legal practice in recent years. In our opinion, the National Security Concept of the Republic of Belarus approved in 2010 by the Presidential Decree of the Republic of Belarus shall be supplemented by the concept of legal security in the prescribed manner.
