So

The article provides a historical perspective of state participation in civil legal relations, starting with the Roman state until the end of the Soviet period. Marked change in the views of experts on the place and role of the state in civil relations, as well as the authorities who acted on behalf of the State in these legal relationships. It is concluded that in the Soviet time, the participation of the state in civil relations becomes broader in scope and more varied in form, but the Soviet jurists did not put an equal sign between the state and legal persons of civil law, emphasizing the special status of the state, based on its Sovereignty.

Keywords: state, civil law relations, legal entity, treasury, Soviet state, political sovereign.
